PHILADELPHIA:

PRINTED BY THOMAS T. STILES.

1813.

ADVERTISEMENT.

THE Titles of the Books which have been added to the Library since the publication of the Catalogue printed in July, 1807, are contained in the subsequent pages. They are divided into two classes: Such of them (comprehending Books of all sizes) as embrace the Names of their Authors, Translators, or Editors, are placed Alphabetically—and the Titles of anonymous Works are classed, each under its proper size, according to the scientific Arrangement adopted in the preceding Catalogues.

The Italick Capitals which immediately follow the Numbers of the Books, designate the Size:—Thus,

F. Folio.
Q. Quarto.
O. Octavo.
D. Duodecimo.

April 23, 1813.

1829.

INTRODUCTION.

THE Books described in the following Catalogue, were part of the Library of the late WILLIAM MACKENZIE, ESQ. of Philadelphia, the city of his birth and residence, during a life extended beyond seventy years, and almost exclusively devoted to literary pursuits.

He was born on the 23d of July, 1758, received his education at the College and Academy of Philadelphia, and then entered the compting house of the late JOHN ROSS, Esquire, one of the most eminent Merchants of that City; where he acquired an accurate and extensive knowledge of mercantile affairs, with reputation to himself and the esteem of that highly respectable gentleman, but being easy in his circumstances, and fond of reading and retirement, he indulged himself in literary pursuits, and gradually accumulated the collection of rare and valuable books, now bequeathed to the Philadelphia and Loganian Libraries, with many others, the greater part of which have since been purchased from his Executors for those Institutions.

The Reverend Doctor JAMES ABERCROMBIE, who was one of his few intimate friends, in speaking of him, says "he believes he never had an enemy, at least, from the purity of his principles and correctness of his conduct, I am sure he never deserved one."

His constitution, though vigorous, was not robust, his manners plain and conciliatory, his hand and his purse were ever open and ready to relieve individual and domestic distress, and contribute to public requisitions; in short, in every relation which he bore to society, he exhibited a truly estimable and exemplary character; as a son, dutiful, affectionate and attentive; as a man, benevolent, liberal, and honest; as a citizen, patriotic, generous, and amiable; as a friend, firm, sincere, and candid; as a companion, intelligent, entertaining, and courteous. He was an accomplished Belles Lettres and classical scholar, and the tenor of his life was an uniform illustration of his principles and the benevolence of his heart; he died on the 30th of July, 1828, having by his last will and testament made the following bequests; in carrying which into effect and disposing of his remaining books, his Executors, THOMAS MITCHELL, GEORGE S. SAVERY, and JUDAH DOBSON, have manifested the same liberality and regard to the two Institutions, which influenced the testator in making those bequests. They are contained in the following Extract from his will, viz:—

"I give and bequeath to the Library Company of Philadelphia, their successors and assigns forever, five hundred volumes to be chosen by the Directors thereof from my English books, published since the beginning of the eighteenth century; and I give and bequeath to the Library Company of Philadelphia aforesaid, their successors and assigns forever, in trust for the increase of the Loganian Library, and subject to the direction of the trustees thereof, all my books printed before the beginning of the eighteenth century, and eight hundred volumes more to be chosen by the said trustees from my French books, and Latin books, printed since the beginning of the eighteenth century.

TENTH SUPPLEMENT

TO

VOLUME II.—PART II.

OF THE

CATALOGUE OF BOOKS,

BELONGING TO THE

LIBRARY COMPANY OF PHILADELPHIA.

COMMUNITER BONA PROFUNDERE DEORUM EST.

PHILADELPHIA:
PRINTED BY ADAM WALDIE.
1832.

ADVERTISEMENT.

The annexed Supplement principally contains a Catalogue of the Books of Mr. James Cox, for many years a distinguished artist and drawing master of this city. They were collected by him with much expense, labour, and assiduity, during a period of more than fifty years. Having been induced to part with them during his lifetime, with a view to their being kept together as "the Cox Library," they were offered to this Institution on favourable terms, and will be found to form a valuable addition to the stock of the Company.

In the Fine Arts there are a number of extremely valuable and expensive works, particularly those of Piranesi, Panini, Middiman, Boydell, &c., &c. There are also many rare and curious works on occult philosophy, and astrology, subjects which once occupied so large a share of the attention of the learned. The miscellaneous department is rich in instructive and entertaining works.

Several very curious historical and theological manuscripts, presented to the Institution by Henry Coxe, Esq., late of Ireland, then a resident in Pennsylvania, and a lineal descendant of the Historian and Secretary of that country, having been placed on the shelves, will be found in their appropriate places in the ensuing pages.

The residue of the Catalogue, forming, however, but a small part of it, comprises the additions made to the Library by importations and purchases in this country, since the publication of the ninth Supplement in Feb. 1831; these may generally be known by the date of their publication, which is mostly "1831" or "1832." Among them will be found the various additions to the Cabinet "Libraries," &c., which are not arranged under the heads of their respective series, but under the names of the authors, or the subjects, when "anonymous," of which the volumes consist.

NOTE.—As periodical publications, such as Magazines, &c. &c., take the same numbers as when they first appeared, none but those recently commenced will be found in the later supplements.
