“Eighth. If the Philadelphia Library Company should “omit or decline to accept my residuary estate on the terms “and conditions in my will and codicils contained, or fail to “comply with any of the preliminary stipulations and direc“tions therein mentioned, then I give and devise the whole “residue of my estate, real and personal, whatsoever and “wheresoever the same may be, after paying and securing “all annuities, bequests, legacies, and devises, other than “those to the said Library Company in this, or any future
 “codicil contained, unto HENRY J. WILLIAMS, my executor, “in my said will named, his heirs, executors, and adminis“trators, in trust, therewith to found and endow a public “library entirely distinct from, and independent of, the “Philadelphia Library Company, to be named and called “the Ridgway Library, under the rules, regulations, condi“tions, and stipulations in my said last will and the codicils
 “thereto expressed and contained. I wish that the greater “part of my estate may be spent in completing the new “library building. The annuities, as they expire and fall “into my residuary estate, will be amply sufficient for all
 “the legitimate purposes of a library.

“Ninth. By my last will and testament hereinbefore re“ferred to (dated February 26, 1860), I have given, be“queathed, and devised my whole estate, real and personal,
 “unto HENRY J. WILLIAMS, my executor, his heirs, execu“tors, administrators, and assigns, in trust; in the first place
 “to provide for, pay, and comply with all legacies, gifts, “annuities, bequests, and devises, declarations and intentions
 “which may be contained or expressed in any codicil to the “said last mentioned will and testament, which I might “thereafter make, to be signed by me at the end thereof,
 “whether formally drawn or not; now, therefore, in pursu“ance of the above provision, I hereby direct, declare, be“queath, and devise as follows:—
