FORT M'HENRY AND MARSHAL KANE.

On 27th June General Banks astonished the people of the rebellious city of Baltimore by arresting Marshal Kane at 3 a. m., and marching him under guard of a file of soldiers to Fort M'Henry. Of his traitorous proceedings no doubt is entertained, and every one applauds General Banks's vigorous course. We publish on page 445, in illustration of the event, a portrait of MANASSAS KANE, from a recent photograph; and on this page a view of Fort M'Henry, lately sent us by a member of Company D, 3d Rifles, M. V. It is an extremely strong fort, and the Columbiads which are now placed in position command the city thoroughly.

Mr. Raymond, of the Times, thus describes Fort M'Henry at the present time:

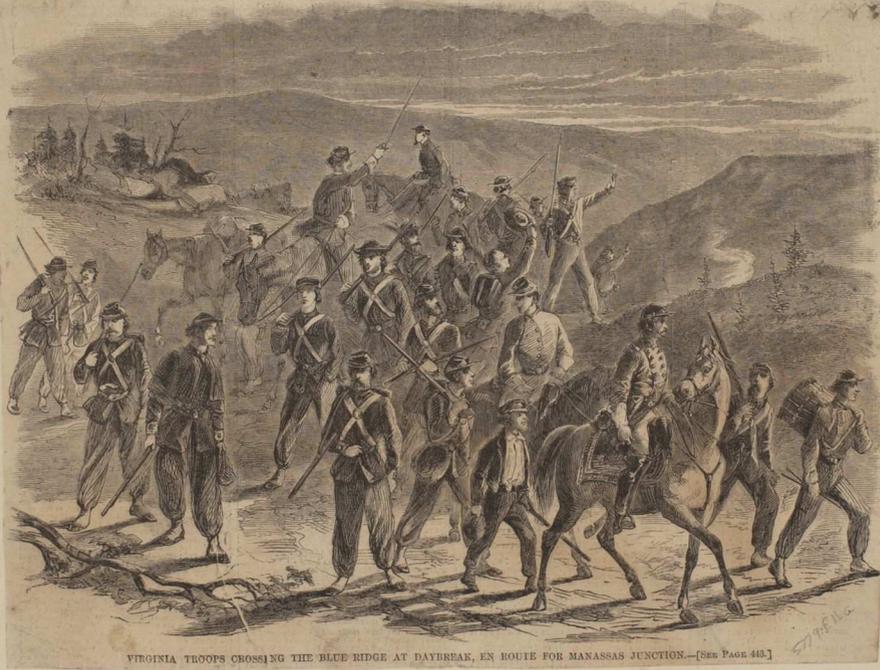

Fort M'Henry is now in very good condition to resist any assault. When the Baltimore riot occurred, it was very fully explained soon after in a letter from the fort to the Times, it was in a very bad condition, and could scarcely have sustained a vigorous assault. It is a small work, of the old style, surrounded by a dry ditch, and was not provided with any defenses on the backward side, from which, when it was built, an attack was never contemplated. But now, thanks to the energy of Major Morris, of the regular army, who has been for some time its commandant, it may defy attack from any quarter. Batteries have been ordered to guard the entrance. An abatis of trees, with projecting branches, has been erected around the fort. Several platforms have been constructed under the certain originally intended only to shelter infantry. Shot and bayonet have been placed over the door and windows of the magazine. Grenades have been provided to roll hand grenades upon the heads of an assaulting force. Fresh guns have been mounted, and I observed that all the mortar and a part of the Columbiads on the backward side were kept loaded—in preparation for any emergency. Fort M'Henry is about two miles from the centre of the city, and it is well understood that it could drop shells, had it otherwise, into all the houses in the infected district with the utmost ease. I trust the necessity for so doing may never arise; but it is desirable to know that, if it does, it can be promptly met.

A correspondent of the Herald says: The "monstrous" examination of Marshal Kane's premises, since the arrest in Baltimore, has brought to light some curious pieces of personal property, the enumeration of which may be of some interest to the public. Here are the articles:

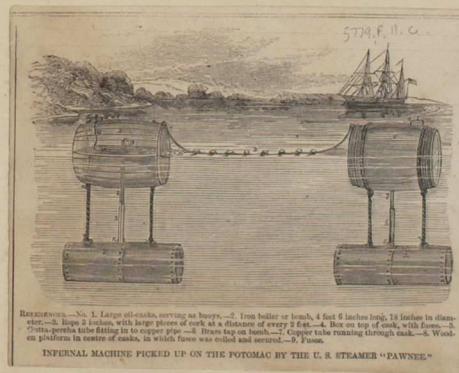

Cannon, four and six pounders, 6; assorted shot, 200; shot, 1000; shot for steam guns, 100; muskets, 60; carbines, 67; rifles, 47; double-barreled shot guns, 3; single-barreled shot guns, 12; muskets, 10; small pistols, 6; bullet moulds, 12; cartridge-boxes, 3; dirk knives, 8; swords, 1; gun stocks, 2; pen-knives, 6; compass, 1; cartridges, 6,000; canisters of shot, 1; boxes a lot of screw-drivers, &c.
