

[APRIL 5, 1862.]

UNCLE SAM—"There, Bob—there's a quarter for you; and now go and let that poor black bird loose."

HARPER'S WEEKLY.

[AUGUST 17, 1861.]

PENNSYLVANIA BEEF CONTRACTOR. "Want Beefsteak? Good Gracious, what is the World coming to? Why, my Good Fellow, if you get Beefsteak, how on earth are Contractors to live? Tell me that."

Mr. John Bull in His Famous Old Part of Pecksniff.
"A mighty contest looms in the distance, and all that we can clearly see is that our own policy of Neutrality is both Wise and Just."—London Times.
"We are strong enough to be Neutral in the best sense of the word; at once TRUE TO OURSELVES, just to our neighbors, and eager, by moral support, to secure every improvement consistent with the EXISTING CLAIMS OF ALL PARTIES."—London Chronicle.

A COCK AND A BULL STORY.

BATTLE BETWEEN THE "BOSNIAN BRIGADE" OF CORRESPONDENTS AND SPECIAL ARTISTS, AND THE MOSQUITOES AND GALLIFLYS OF THE SOUTH-WEST.—FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST, F. M. LAURENCE.

THE SECESSIONS' TARGET
"Our Artillery are improving rapidly in their Firing; they practice constantly at Targets."—Rebel Paper.

Horrid Nightmare of John Bull on Hearing of Prince Napoleon's Visit to Washington.