

UNIFORM OF COLONEL GEARY'S ARTILLERY (GENERAL BANKS'S DIVISION).—[See Page 70.]

FORAGING IN VIRGINIA.

Private Jones, Brown, and Smith, coming in from picket duty capture a live pig. The Colonel happens to be in the vicinity, they hurry to kill him.

to keep it to their tent, to its legs and put into their tent for concealment.

While they are quietly sleeping the pig awakes and takes a look around

Brown, Jones, and Smith awake, and see the position of the pig. They know they have been carried to their own tent, and in time the picture of war and peace to an military exercise upon him, but the long roll sounds, and finally the Piggy and a long walk to the tent.

"Piggy" escapes once more with the knowack on his back, and in the course of his wanderings approaches, the enemy on duty. Not knowing the pass w, Piggy is incontinently shot as a spy.

The pig is finally dressed, when the Colonel steps in, and to discourage stealing, orders it to his own premises twenty-four hours guard-house for the next offender.