

Library Company of Philadelphia records (MSS00270)

least the end of the 19th century, the Library Company continued to manage the Loganian Library as a separate-but-related entity within its operations.

This series includes James Logan's circa 1751 manuscript and 1760 printed Catalogus Bibliotheca Loganian, as well as catalogs printed between 1795-1867 during the Library Company's management. The series also includes loan slips, fine records, invoices and account statements for book purchases and binding, and other related collection correspondence.

Note that some Loganian collection-related information may be found within the Library Company records in Record Group 1; documents that described both institutions were filed with the relevant series in the Library Company's record group.
