Sir,

By the return post from Boston I last Evening received your letter of the 31. of Decr. a prior letter on the same subject, which you mention never came to hand - previous to my leaving Philadelphia I directed my servant to carry back to the library the books I had borrowed, and until the receipt of your letter I supposed my directions had been complied with - I beg you to be assured that had the books been brought away through inattention or mistake, they would have been immediately returned - I lodged at the City Tavern kept by Moyston; possibly the books may have been left there, and I beg to trespass on your Goodness in requesting you
