PRINCIPAL AGENTS,

es,

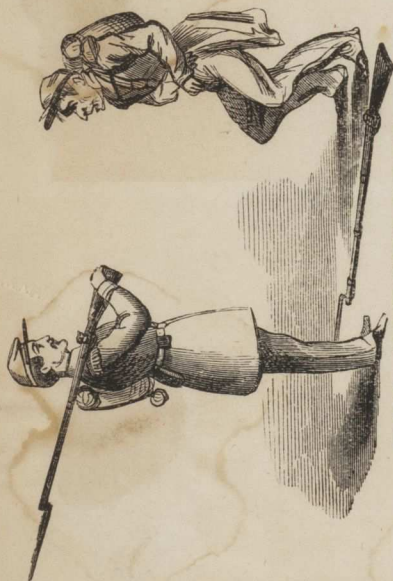

No. 318 Chestnut Street,

PHILADELPHIA. [A.]

Dear Sir:—After reading the enclosed circular, should you see fit to order "the belt" enclose this card by letter to some friend at home, requesting him to purchase it for you. It can be sent by Mail at a cost of 10 cts. postage.

Price of the Belt is One Dollar.

Every one of you should have one.

THE DIFFERENCE.

TOM. Halloo, Bob, is that you?
BOB. Yes, that's me—what's left of me!
TOM. Why, my good fellow, I should'n't have known you, if I had met you anywhere else!
BOB. No, I don't believe you would. I hardly know myself! The fact is, I did'n't think of ever getting sick w'hen I left. You know I was always "Right—and tough as a knot," but then Hot Days, Damp Nights, and Bad Water have played the deuce with me.
TOM. Well, I'll tell you what you must do: write to-day to some friend at home to send you an "Aromatic Stomach Belt," and wear it, that's the thing! My good old considerate Mother—God bless her!—got me one before I left. She wanted to see me again, top up: and, besides, she knew if I kept well, I could do the fighting; and here I am just as good as new. But I don't believe you 'could pull a Chicken off the Roost.'
BOB. That's so, Tom. I can't think how I was so incon siderate: but I'll remedy the matter now. I can't fight without a strong arm—experience is a good school-master—I'll write for a belt this day. Good bye, Tom!
