

BOOKS in OCTAVO. 101

in England, and little known in the Southern Parts of Scotland. 2 Vols. 1754.

409. Essays, Medical and Philosophical. By George Martine, M. D. 1740.

410. An Historical Account of the Life and Writings of James the First, King of Great-Britain; after the Manner of Mr. Bayle, drawn from original Writers and State Papers by William Harris, London, 1753.

411. Curious Remarks and Observations in Physics, Anatomy, Chirurgery, Chemistry, Botany and Medicine; extracted from the History and Memoirs of the Royal Academy of Sciences at Paris. Containing such useful Discoveries as have not yet been collected by other Writers on the same Subjects. By Doctor Peter Templeman, 1753.

412. Observations upon Lord Orrery's Remarks on the Life and Writings of Doctor Jonathan Swift; containing very singular Anecdotes relating to the Character and Conduct of that great Genius, and the most deservedly celebrated Stella, in a Series of Letters to his Lordship. To which are added, two original Pieces of the same Author, excellent in their Kind, never before published. London, 1754.

413. Essays on the following Subjects. 1. On the Reality and Evidence of Miracles, especially those on which the Jewish and Christian Religion are built, and on those which were wrought by Moses in Egypt; and why stiled by God his Judgments on the Egyptian Deities. 2. On the extraordinary Adventure of Balaam, the famed eastern Prophet and Diviner. 3. On the surprizing March and signal Victory gained by Joshua over Jabin, King of Hazor, and his numberless Confederates. 4. On the Religious War of the Israelitish Tribes against that of Benjamin, and the almost total Destruction of that impious Tribe. 5. On the amazing speedy Relief which Saul, the newly chosen King of Israel, brought to the besieged Inhabitants of Jabesh-Gilead; and the signal Overthrow which he gave to the Ammonites, and their Confederates; wherein the most considerable Objections raised against each respective Subject, are fully answered; the Difficulties removed, and each of these remarkable Transactions accounted for, in a rational Way. Written some Years, at the Desire, and for the Use, of a young Clergyman in the Country, by a Layman in Town, now published on Occasion of some late Attempts made to disprove the Probability, and even Possibility of all Miracles; par-

