

I N D E X.

Females and Slaves why upon a level amongst Barbarians, 4.
 Forfeitures how to be applied, 324.
 Fortune improper pretension for Power, 155.
 Freemen in general, what Power they ought to have, 145, 146.
 Free State treated of, 204.
 ———— how it arises out of a Democracy and Oligarchy, 207, 208.
 Friendship weakened by a Community of Children, 55.

G.

General, the Office of, how to be disposed of, 165.
 Gods why supposed subject to Kingly Government, 5.
 Good and Evil, the perception of, necessary to form a Family and a City, 6.
 Good Fortune something different from Happiness, 343.
 Good, relative to Man, how divided, 341.
 Governments, Political, Regal, Family, and Servile, their difference from each other, 2.
 Government of the Master over the Slave, sometimes reciprocally useful to both, 18.
 Government should continue as much as possible in the same hands, 48.
 ———— in what manner it should be in rotation, 49.
 ———— what, 111.
 Governments, how different from each other, 114.
 ———— whether more than one form should be established, 129.
 ———— should endeavour to prevent others from being too powerful. Instances of it, 158.
 Government, which best, of a good Man or good Laws, 166.
 Governments, how compared to Music, 187.
 Government, good, to what it should owe its preservation, 209.
 Governments in general to what they owe their preservation, 271.
 Government, what the best, 380.
 Governors and Governed, whether their Virtues are the same or different, 40.
 ————, whether they should be the same persons or different, 383.
 Grecians, their Superiority over other People, 361.
 Guards of a King Natives, 163.
 ———— of a Tyrant Foreigners, ib.
 Guards of a King, 285.
 ———— of a Tyrant, ib.
 Gymnastic Exercises, when to be performed, 377.
 ———— how far they should be made a part of Education, 410, 411.