and then Mr. Fisher came with the food and we had supper. It was very good, served on a pretty table in a big tent. another tent adjoining it was the kitchen and where the guides slept. (Mother & I) across from the dining tent was our little tent all by itself and beyond the kitchen was a row of about five tents where M, E, Dad, and Proff. Earwig slept. The other tents had no beds in them.

After supper Tommy took aunt E. back to the chalets. After walking around for a while Mother and I went to bed. Proff. Earwig came after a while and all the rest sat around and talked.

July Wed. 27

Proff. Earwig up and off with his pack before we had breakfast. I stood in the kitchen and watched him and the guides eat, talked to Mrs. Fisher and watched her get the ham and eggs.

After breakfast the "major" went to round up the horses which had been let loose to graze during the night. He returned with the news that he couldn't find them. We took his horse and went to hunt. We spent the morning sitting around, writing, walking around, and being bitten by mosquitoes. When they at last came in, having been met by parties of pack horses ~~in~~ half way to Field they were driven in the corral after a great deal of shouting and chasing. No sooner did ~~we~~ we get them in but they all jumped over the fence on the opposite side and ran away again, all except two which ~~we~~ the major caught and bridled. Major went out after the others and we got tired waiting and took
