CHESNUT.—This establishment closed on Tuesday evening. The performance was announced for the benefit of the poor, and we learn that about $200 were realized. Before the fall of the curtain for the last time, Mr. Manager Olwine delivered an address written by Mr. James Rees, appropriate to the occasion. The curtain then descended, the lights were put out, and Old Drury ceased to exist as a theatre. On the following day a crowd assembled to see the stage effects and building materials of, but sold at private sale.

nearly divested of all that gave it interest, and before the lapse of another week, will be in progress of demolition without. In this connection we may state that there is a rumor current of a project to erect a theatre at the corner of Chesnut and Eighth streets, on the Butler lot.
