

that nine doors be placed on the cases in the Ladies Room for the better protection of the valuable books there.

Respectfully

Lydia Smith
Librarian

The janitor John Smith having lost two children, which he attributes to the dampness of his quarters in the basement, has resigned his situation & left the service of the lib. I have employed a watchman at fifty cents a night to take charge temporarily of the premises out of Library hours, with liberty to sleep in the building.

