MACHINIST

You a mechanic, old chump?
You 're garbage, just fit for the dump.
Judged by your cheek, you work home;
Judged by your grin, you 're an ass.
Drinking rot-gut every hour,
No wonder you 're crabbed and sour.
You claim to be learned, but feel
Your principal business is steel.

FRENCH NURSE—(from Ireland.)

Your cap is quite pretty, and so are your clothes,
But I can't say the same of your mouth and your nose,
And as for your feet, my wonder is great,
You can travel at all, and drag round such a weight.
But nothing I say can upset your conceit,
For you think that you mash every man that you meet.

A POT WASHER.

Your dress is cheap and vulgar, and as through the street you strut,
With a smile that's awful boozy, and a talk that's full of smut.
You are seeking for some Paddy, to lead you to the priest——
But they know your brain is frothy, as the cheapest kind of yeast.
Your foul breath smells of onions, and e're you try to flirt,
Your teeth all need a scrubbing brush, to cleanse them of their dirt.
'Tis true that you are growing old, and sadly need a mate,
But even an Irish soldier, would fly from such a fate.

SEAMSTRESS

Your trade is tiresome, that is true,
But still no cause for feeling blue,
Such sour and discontented mein
On human face should ne'er be seen.
With selfish thoughts don't fill your mind,
Your task more pleasant then you'll find.

A SLANDERER.

To the maker of all sin
You are the stain, or else the twin.
This ugly picture you see here
Is flattering to your character.
No other pic here you in life,
But with your foul tongue making strife.

A MEAN EMPLOYER.

Hard hearted, mean, unfeeling wretch,
Whose only thought is for yourself!
And how you sour, by any means,
Increase you pile of ill got gold.
Do not think this you'll escape
The punishment within your grave.
Eternal Justice may slowly move,
But from its aim it never swerves.

GOOD LUCK, IF SOMEBODY ELSE'S.

YOU WANT TO BE A HIGH ROLLER, DO YOU?

One would think you'd had your leg pulled
As often as you'd wish,
Yet the plainest bait you'll swallow,
As blindly as a fish.
The result of your ambition
To figure as a "rounder,"
Will be that, sometime, in hot soup
Up to your neck you'll flounder.

THE OFFICE LADY.

Ah, what an air of innocence
You fancy you are wearing!
How gentle and seraphic
You try to make your bearing!
But, oh, if some deluded chump
You for an angel takes,
He well may sigh, and long to fly,
When from his dream he wakes!

NOVEL-READER.

You lazy, shiftless, frowsy slut,
With tangled flying hair;
A stupid novel you devour,
Fixed in your easy chair.
Get up, you fool, your dishes wash,
Go make your towzeled bed;
And mend your ragged, slattern dress,
That hangs in many a shred.

YOUR ELEGANT MANNERS.

For ways that are nasty and rude you outvie
The greediest grunter that lives in a sty.
You stuff and you gobble, you slobber and swill,
As if time were lacking, your belly to fill.
You're so filthy I wonder how people are able,
Appetite to retain when they join you at table.

THE LOCOMOTIVE

A GRASPING LANDLORD.

Reaping and grasping, and grasping for rent,
And never content under fifty per cent.;
And if all the cash is not there at your call,
You are ready to swallow down house, goods and all!

May such creatures find neither home nor repose
And never see rent, save a rent in their clothes.

TOO ARE YOU FOND THE RIBBON OF THE DAY.

It is a morning joy to see,
Yourselves gaily gay and free,
And that their bonnet off there flies,
That's not your name, I'm quite sure, Miss;
Hardly, indeed, would be the case
Were such your unimportance worn.

And still desire his tips to place
In lover's fashion on your face.

GOOD FOR NOTHING.

This will be your doom, lazy bones, they'll drive you out of town,
There's one way to avoid it, go jump into a pond and drown.
We've only room in this world, for men who are honest and work,
And keep a lash and the rope, for those like you who always shirk.
Music is lost on such as you, and the only way I see
Is to lead you out some dismal night and hang you to a tree.
Where will you wander when you're dead, for Satan won't have such pests
'Cause well he knows, that such as you, would only corrupt his guests.

WE KNOW YOU.

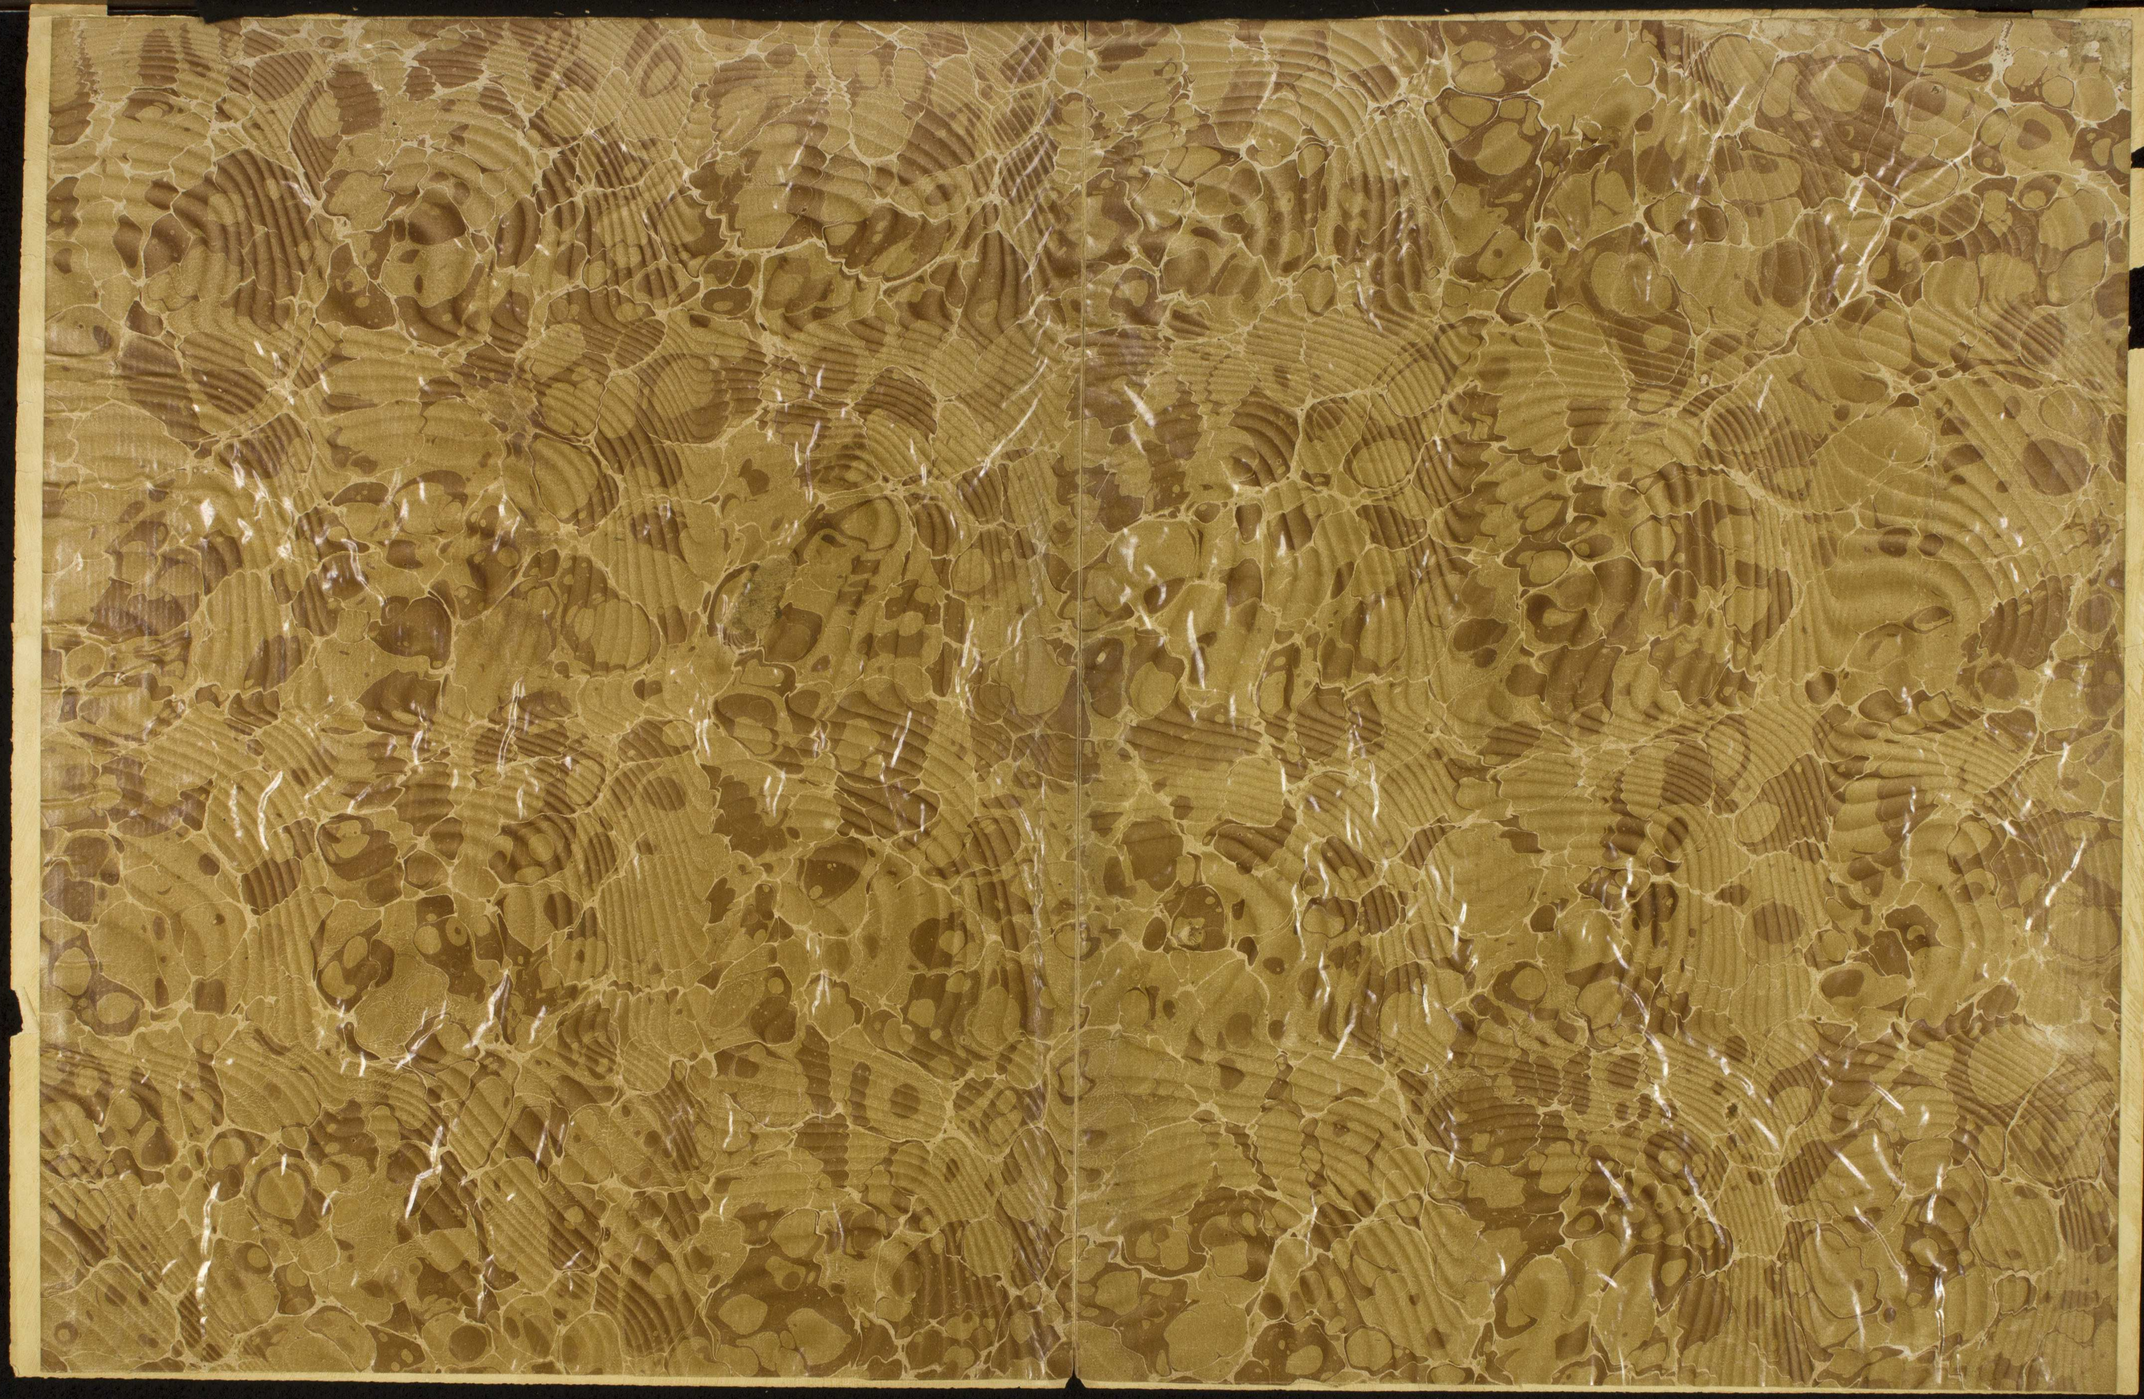

THE OFFICEHOLDER.

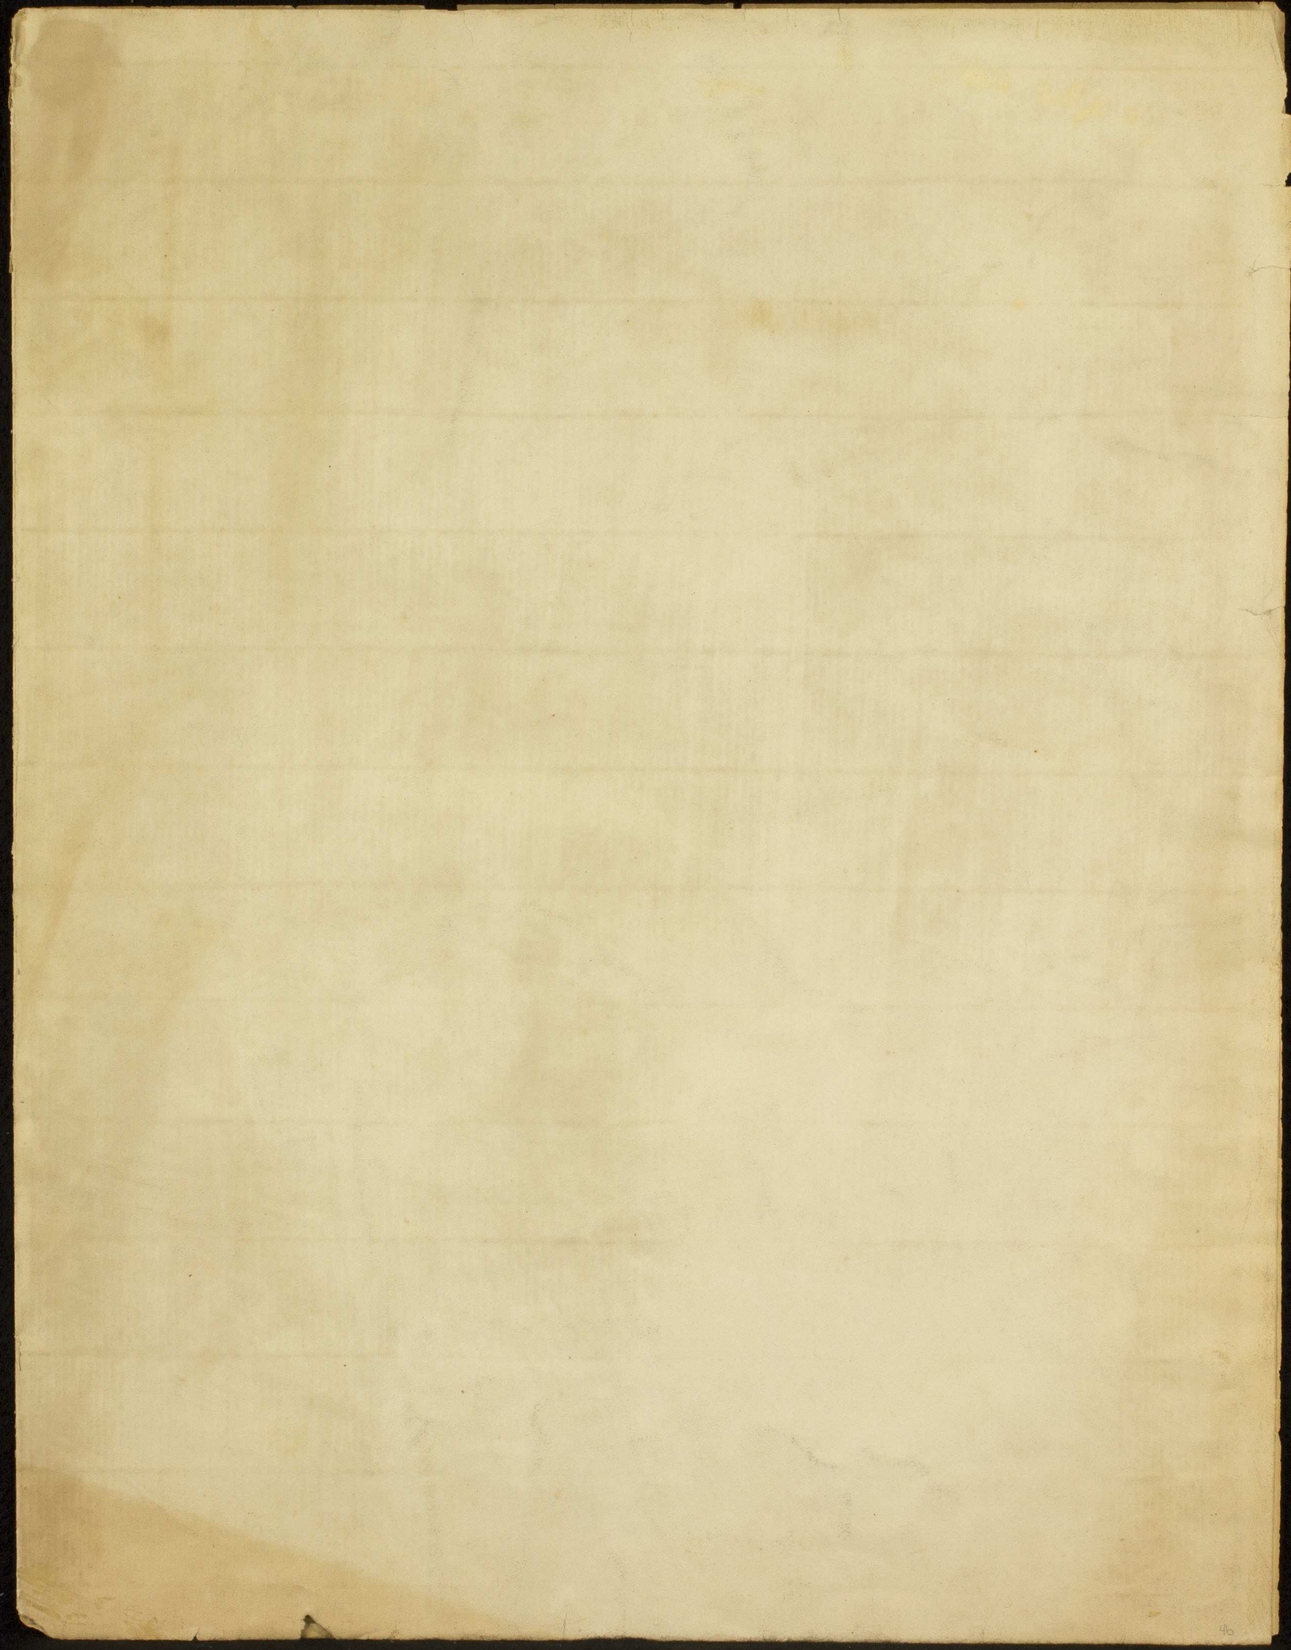

RICHARD L. ERNOUL.

THE PINK OF MODESTY.

You'd be a pink of modesty, but it will never go,
You'd break your wiry neck, if you could only catch a beau.
You are ever throwing sheep's eyes, at men who chance to pass,
But none of them will notice such a vain, conceited lass.
For they one and all well know, how a brazen, selfish heart
Can lie within the breast of her who plays the modest part.

SLOVENLY WAITRESS.

A waitress you pretend to be,
And one too of the upper "cut;"
But here we show you as you are,
A slip-shod, clumsy, dirty slut.
You wear a frouzy, ragged bang,
And think you eat a mighty dash,
While oftentimes, the boarders swear
They find your hair-pins in the hash.

AN OLD CAT.

You are a regular old cat;
In the night walking line
You have not had your fill of rat,
And would 'mid moonlight shine.
Your breath is foul and funk and rank,
Your eyes are greggy, blear;
In beauty's court you'd draw a blank
If no one else was near.

YOUNG MOTHER.

Make the young kid take a nap;
Yes, 'tis bawling for its pap!
Maybe it will have a fit—
Change the medicine for it.
Has it colic? Don't delay;
Send for the doctor right away.

A DOUGH-HEAD.

You sleepy headed numskull, go home and take a snooze,
When you go to see the girls, they think you're full of booze.
As vain as any weather-cock, you know not how to talk,
Nor can you take a slight hint, when you're told its time to walk.
You ought to be a baker's boy, for now wherever you go,
The girls all laugh at such a calf, and say your head is dou

A GOOD REPLY.

An English gentleman taking an early walk over his grounds, came across an Irishman whom he suspected of being there for the purpose of poaching. Pat bowed very low in answer to the gentleman's "good morning," and said, "May I be so bould as to ask what brings your lordship out so airly this morning?"

"Well Pat," said he, "I came out to get an appetite," and then thinking to corner the would-be poacher, he added "But what brings you out so early?" "To tell the truth, your lordship," said Pat, "I came out because I has an appetite." Let us hope that Pat's ready answer secured him the privilege of snaring a bird for his breakfast.

In free America we have neither lords nor poachers, but we have persons who get up in the morning without an appetite. They feel weak and debilitated, have a bitter taste in the mouth, no desire for food, and wonder why they are never really hungry. If they do eat, their digestion is slow and feeble, with frequent rising of food, and a feeling of uncomfortable fullness.

Now these persons need Carter's Liver Bitters, which make one eat and cure Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, and all diseases caused by Malaria. These Bitters not only give an appetite, but with it power to digest the food taken. They make you eat, and at the same time enable you to get the good out of what you have eaten.

With their use Dyspepsia disappears, the liver secretes its proper amount of bile, and the bowels move regularly. As a consequence Carter's Little Pills also break up Chills and Fever, and prevent their return, and are a complete antidote to all Malarial Poisons received through Food, Drink, or Air. So thickly are the groggy dens of cheap whisky and worthless foods, so called "food" nostrums, but a really medicinal bitters, every drop of which is of value and will do some one good.

WHAT THE TELEPHONE SAID.

An Intelligent Drug Clerk Declares that All He Heard Was P-z-z-s, and Not Much of That—Messengers a Minute Apart at the End of a Four-and-a-Half-Mile Heat.

Clarence W. Hill, of 244 East Sixtieth street, decided on Thursday afternoon to go to Philadelphia and remain a week on business.

It was arranged that Mrs. Hill should leave at 2 o'clock on the ferry for Jersey City to see if the week with her parents there. Friday morning Mr. Hill went downtown, where he had some business at the Produce Exchange Building, and while there he decided to postpone the trip a few days. Mr. Hill looked at his watch. It was 12.15 o'clock. His wife intended to leave the house at about 1.15. But perhaps she would leave half or three-quarters of an hour earlier.

By taking a Third avenue Elevated train at Hanover square he could reach home in about forty minutes. But why go at all when a messenger could ride as fast?

Frank Leontini is an Italian bootblack. He works for Tony Asti, who runs the various stands in the Produce Exchange.

"Here, boy," said Mr. Hill, "I'll give you 50 cents to take a message to No. 244 East Sixtieth street—quick."

"Gimme fifty cents an' car fares," commanded Frank.

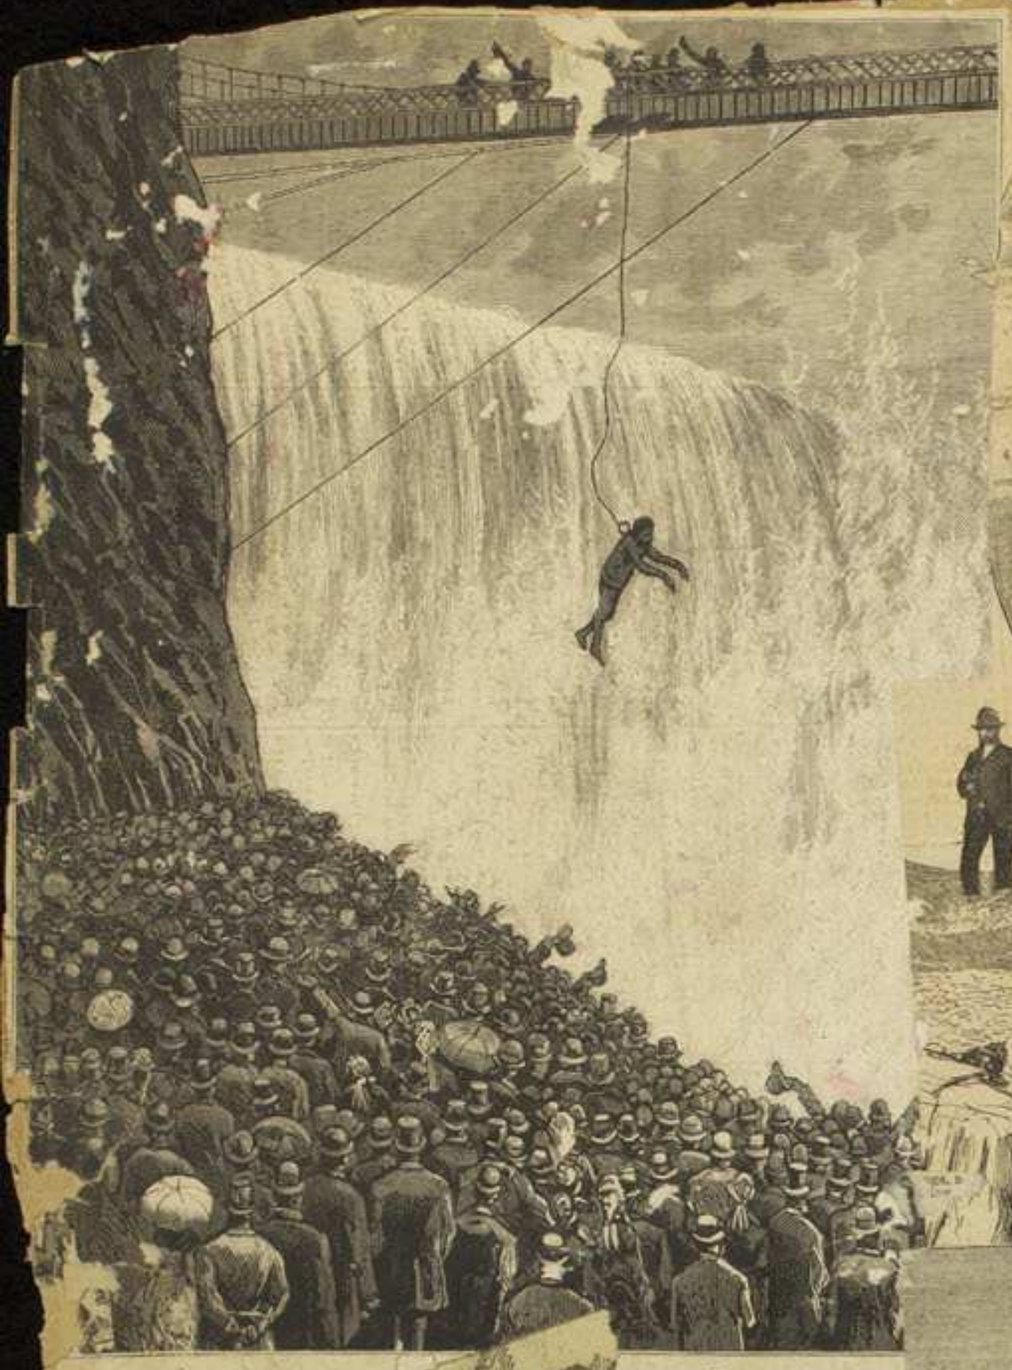

Mr. Hill ran to Post-Office Branch P. at the other end of the building, to buy a combination envelope. He lost five minutes of the time writing at the stamp window. He got his envelope. Then he determined to send a special-delivery envelope by Frank. Next the notion entered his head to write a special-delivery letter in addition, though he had no idea that it would arrive at its destination as soon as the special delivery.

It was the work of a moment to write a short note on the back of three combination envelopes. The notes simply said: "Decided not to go to-day. Will be home to dinner to-night."

Three special-delivery letters were dropped into the Post-Office box. Another letter was given to Frank, with impressive instructions.

Grass grow under his feet. Hardly fifteen feet or his way remembered that the American Company had their District Messenger Office.

A BAKER.

The bread that you bake is not fit for a dog,
Your pies and your cake would sicken a hog;
Sawdust-flour you use, rancid butter and lard,
For such practice you ought to be feathered and tarred,

You've no more music in you
Than has a screeching loon,
You cannot tell a sharp from flat,
Nor keep the simplest tune:
You thump away upon the keys

Are badly taken in.

A BLARNEY-SKITE.

You flattering bogtrotter, the brogues on your tongue so thick,
That you could not get it off, if you scrubbed it with a brick.
You've used soft soap on every one, that you have ever seen,
Do try some on your homely face, and try to keep it clean.
They say that you've kissed the blarney stone, and doubtless it is true,
For Ochone! the poor stone, alone, would never have kissed you.

No wonder you're crabbed and sour.
You claim to be honest, but feel

A BOTCH BARBER.

You dizzy little thing you, how like a bird you flutter,
You ought to go to sweeping streets, and scraping out the gutter.
Then as to fixing up the hair, it makes your victims bluer,
To think that such a poor sham should work as a shampooer.
You might succeed in cutting wood, but as for cutting hair,
The Kickapoo could do it much better in his lair.
Your razor is as dull as you, but viler is your breath,
While your tongue can talk a regiment of Turks to certain death.

the total votes of these States had increased to 1,830,691, an actual gain of 408,849, or nearly 24 per cent. In the sixteen years the Republican party can show an increase of nearly 300,000 votes in the States of the doubtful North, against a loss of nearly 140,000 votes in the solid South. In the one case the Republican gain has been nearly 63 per cent.; in the other the loss nearly 32 per cent. Dividing the country into five sections, we find that the total vote between 1872 and 1880 increased in the New England States about 10 per cent., in the Middle States about 37 per cent., in the doubtful Southern States about 7½ per cent., in the Western States about 36 per cent., and in the States of the solid South only 25 per cent.

The people of the North would like Mr. GRANT to explain this fact. In 1872 the Republican vote for General GRANT in the States of the solid South aggregated 485,491; in 1880 for HARRISON it was only 485,671, a loss between 1872 and 1880 of 140,021 votes, or, to be exact, 28.28-100 per cent. of loss. It is unwise for Mr. GRANT to attempt to claim that the solid South takes as much interest in voting as New England, when the official figures show that on the head. And yet it is denied that Mr. CLEVELAND is a free trader.

CATARRH,

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—HA

A NEW HOME TREATME

Sufferers are still generally aware that catarrhal diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membranes of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks.

N. B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free, on receipt of stamp to pay postage, by A. H. Dixon & Son, 337 and 339 West King st., Toronto, Canada.—Christian Advocate.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above.

Harvey Kennedy's Will.

The will of Harvey Kennedy, the banker and broker, was filed with Probate Clerk Bernard J. Tinney yesterday, together with waivers of citation from the heirs and next of kin. The will was executed July 3, 1878, while Mr. Kennedy's wife was yet alive, and provided for an allowance of $20,000 a year to her, besides $5,000 absolutely, with one-fifth of the income of the estate in excess of $30,000. By the terms of the will Miss Thomas will receive $5,000, and the decedent's living sister and brothers $20,000 each. The sister and brothers will divide the residue equally. The other bequests are $1,000 to Mrs. Sarah Boyle of Athens, $1,000 to the Presbyterian Church at West Galway, Fulton County, and $2,000 to Green Hill Cemetery Association, Amsterdam. Matthew B. Moore of Fonda and Palmer H. Chadwick are the executors.

You measly, mumbling, wrinkled pill,
Your head is like a billiard ball;
Deaf as a post—to make you hear,

You shut your wat'ry eyes and snore;
Your ears bespeak the braying ass,
Your silly talk the gabbling bore.

Would scare all the men in a nation away.

CROSSPATCH.

You dirty, ranting, red-mouthed hussy,
Always fighting, wrangling, fussy;
To answer you is awful risky,
Horrid swiller of bad whisky,
You with foul tongue oft libel

You polisher of old hats,
You even scare away the rats.
Spit on your hands in proper style,
And slick the edges of that style;
Take out the dents that hats do mostish,
And use your iron to give polish;
When you to your tricks have resorted,
Sell out your old hat as imported.

DRESSMAKER.

You are an awful bothy sewer,
And ought to make your wages lower
Because you run a sewing-machine,
You should not be so awful mean.
Your dresses they are simply vile;
You say they are made in Worth's best style?
You say they are made in Worth's best style?
Of the men as you make stitches.
you marry sew their breeches.

AN OLD SCANDAL-MONGER.

Gossiping old woman! 'Tis such as you to-day,
That fill the world with discord and dismay.
From home to home your poisoned tales you take,
Marking your path with slime, as doth a snake.
'Tis sweet to think that some day you must die,
But even then, within your grave, you'll lie.

Cuba. There was no dissatisfaction against the Government in that State now.

The new Government, added Gen. Chermont, was most anxious to increase its trade with the United States of America, which the United States of Brazil regards with a more friendly feeling than they possess for any other country. The new Government was most anxious to obtain as citizens natives of foreign countries, especially those of the United States of America. Only a day or two ago the Minister of the Interior had issued a circular explaining the desire of the Government to have foreigners become naturalized citizens of Brazil, and announcing that all such persons would be naturalized without delay or signifying their intentions.

Referring to the relations of Brazil to [illegible] countries, Gen. Chermont said movement. The Monarchists, who had endeavored among other things to take summary measures with Dr. Martins because of the prominent part he had assumed in Republican politics in the past, found themselves deserted, and Dr. Martins was installed as Chief of Police in the place of the Monarchist incumbent, who was deposed from office without ceremony.

FRANCE'S SENATE ROUTED.

I had heard that in a fight between Republicans and Monarchists in the suburbs of the city of Cuera, on Nov. 16, five of the Monarchists had been killed, two being Portuguese and the rest Brazilians, and also that in a fight between the same factions in the city of Bahia on Nov. 18 several men had been shot and wounded, but no lives lost. I asked Dr. Martins about the truth of these rumors. He said that [illegible] believe the first to be true, [illegible]

Mr. Meyer's Fast.

1. Mose Meyer reads in the paper about people making themselves famous by long fasts, and decides that he will surpass the record.

2. He tells his wife his decision, and, notwithstanding her efforts to dissuade him, at once begins to fast.

3. She has sent for the family physician, who cautions Meyer [illegible] of mentally, and everything about him nervous.

4. A sympathetic neighbor drops in, and the former endeavors to interfere with Meyer's fast. But the physician says he must keep on, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is to keep his strength up.

5. For scientific purposes they weigh and measure him, take his temperature, and give him the first dose of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

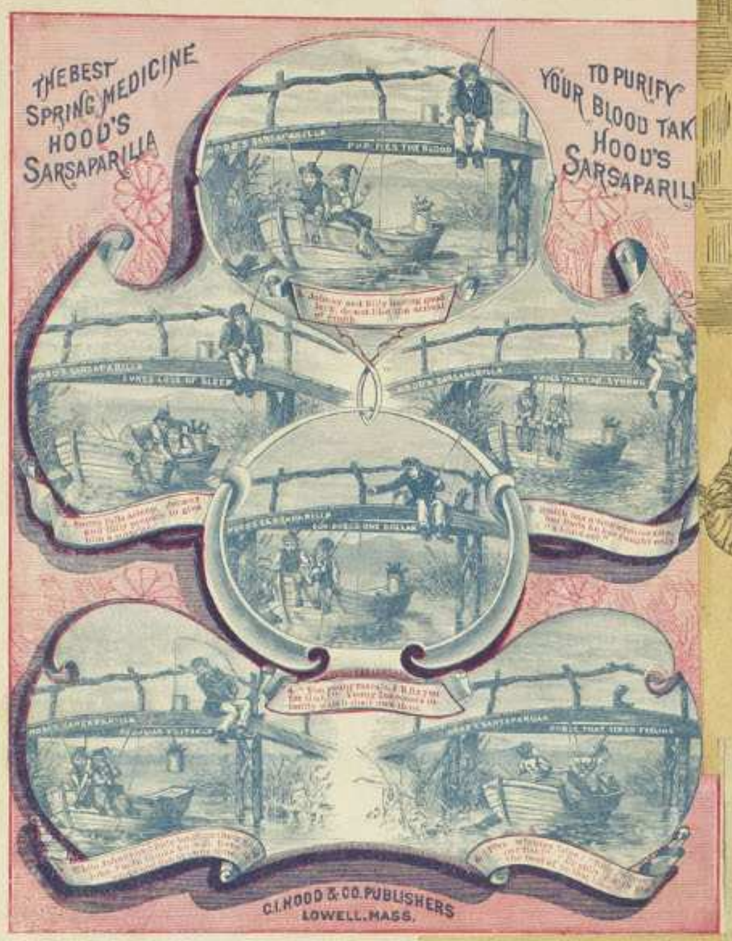

6. Mrs. Meyer invites the two children in to dinner with her. This is the critical test for Meyer. But he starts in bravely, with the aid of Hood's Sarsaparilla, he will be strong enough to resist temptation to eat.

7. But the medicine has an effect he did not relish to [illegible]. It arouses his appetite so that he feels that he must eat. He asks to try the sweet stuff they have been [illegible] and from dumplings, and that is his favorite dessert.

8. He goes to the table and says he will confine to [illegible] except to take another dose of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

9. His appetite becomes so great that he rushes to the table and saying, "I must eat or die," at once begins to attack the [illegible] dumplings.

10. Mrs. Meyer is prepared with another dish of [illegible] dumplings, and they are all produced at the moment of Hood's Sarsaparilla is [illegible] Mr. Meyer's fast.

THE ROAD TO SCHOOL.

[FROM THE GERMAN.]

In winter, when it freezes,
In winter, when it snows,
The road to school seems long and drear,
O'er which the school-boy goes.

But when the pleasant summer comes,
With birds and fruit and flowers,
The road to school, how short it is!
And short the sunny hours!

But to the boy who loves to learn,
And wisdom strives to gain,
The road to school is always short,
In sunshine, snow, or rain.

IN AN ATMOSPHERE OF HORRIBOOLA-GHA.

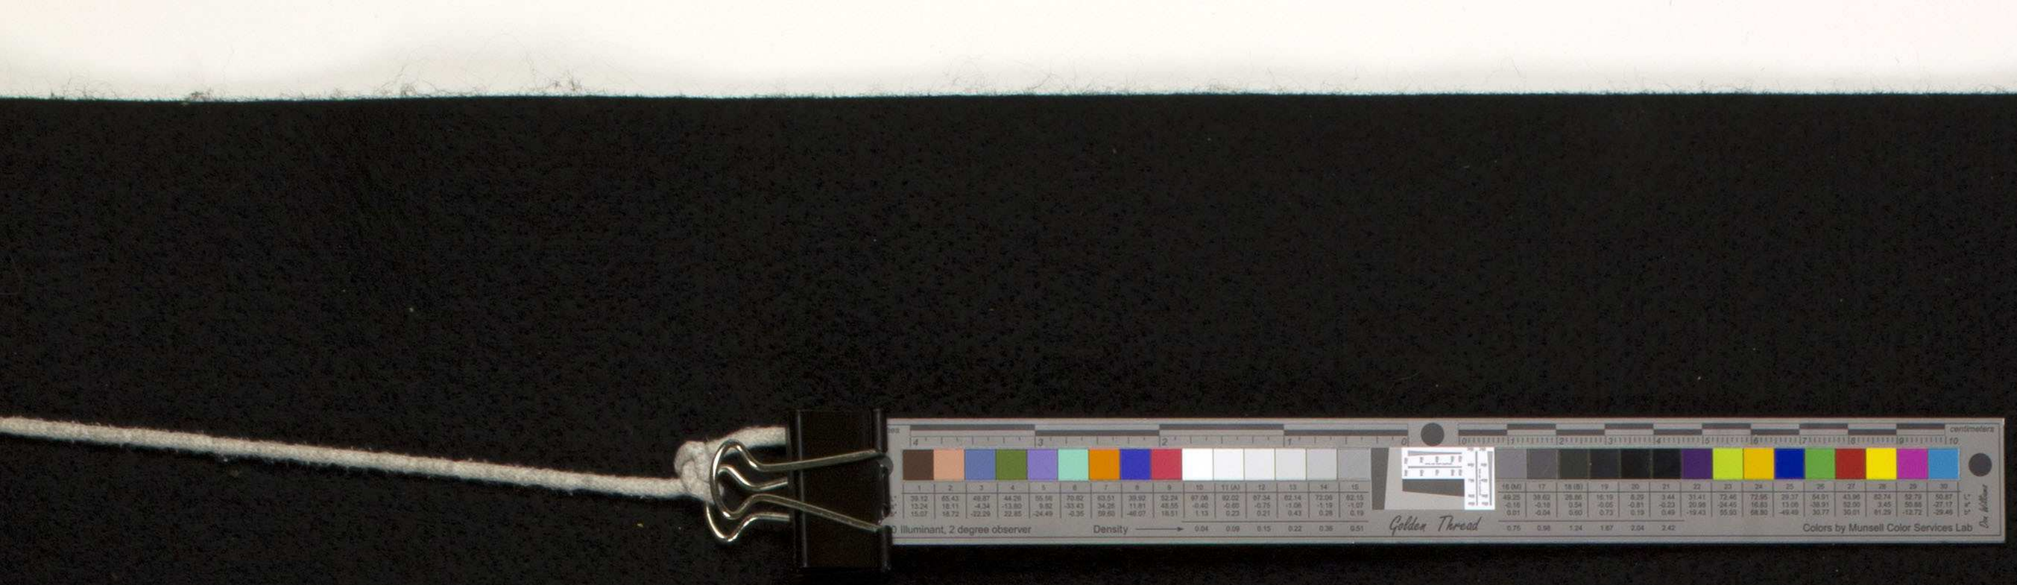

A GOOD REPLY.
An English gentleman taking an early walk over his grounds, came across a Irishman whom he suspected of being there for the purpose of poaching. Pat bowed very low in answer to the gentleman's "Good morning," and said "May I be so bould as to ask what brings your lordship out so airly this morning?"
"Well Pat," said he, "I came out to get an appetite," and then thinking to corner the would-be poacher, he added "But what brings you out so early?" "To tell the truth, your lordship," said Pat, I came out because I had an appetite." Let us hope that Pat's ready answer secured him the privilege of snaring a bird for his breakfast.
In free America we have neither lords nor poachers, but we have persons who get up in the morning without an appetite. They feel weak and debilitated, have a bitter taste in the mouth, no desire for food, and wonder why they are never really hungry. If they do eat, their digestion is slow and feeble, with frequent rising of food, and a feeling of uncomfortable fullness.
Now these persons need Carter's Liver Bitters, which make one eat and cure Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, and all diseases caused by Malaria.
These Bitters not only give an appetite, but with it power to digest the food taken. They make you eat, and at the same time enable you to get the good out of what you have eaten.
With their use Dyspepsia disappears, the liver secretes its proper amount of bile, and the bowels move regularly in consequence. Carter's Liver Bitters also break up Chills and Fever, and prevent their return, and are a complete antidote to all Malarial Poison, yet entirely free from Quinine. No thickened syrupy dose. No cheap whisky and worthless roots. No "food" nonsense, but a really medicinal bitters, every drop of which is of value and will do some one good.
Sold in large Pint bottles at One Dollar per bottle. Prepared only by

A GOOD REPLY.
An English Gentleman taking an early walk over his grounds, came across an Irishman whom he suspected of being there for the purpose of poaching. Pat bowed very low in answer to the gentleman's "Good morning" and said "May I be so bould as to ask what brings your lordship out so airly this morning?"
"Well Pat," said he, "I came out to get an appetite," and then thinking to corner the would-be poacher, he added "But what brings you out so early?" "To tell the truth, your lordship," said Pat, I came out because I had an appetite." Let us hope that Pat's ready answer secured him the privilege of snaring a bird for his breakfast.

SCHOOL-TEACHER.

You scrawny old tyrant of small boys,
What is that prompts you to be
So savage and fierce with the urchins
That are sent to be taught at your knee.
Perhaps the motive that moves you
Is revenge on the whole of the sex—
Because none of them ever did take you,
You wish you had all by the necks.

A SIMPERING MISS.

Your face you always decorate with a large expansive smile,
Which I suppose you think so sweet that it must all beguile.
In truth it's but a silly smirk, a stupid, witless grin,
Of which we get so awful tired we'd like to rap your chin.

STUPID MASON.

You are only a howling idiot, and you waste more than you use,
You can't lay a brick, or plaster a niche, but you know how to vilely abuse.
The hod you ought to be carrying, for you're only a spoiler of brick,
And you never did groan when hit with a stone, because your head is so thick.
You ought to be taken up by the heels, and thrown in a mortar-bed,
And mixed with that stuff, till it takes off the rough, and puts some sense in your head.

THE BICYCLIST.

Now don't you cut a foolish figure,
Mounted on that stupid "Jigger,"
Tearing up and down the street,
Scaring ev'ry child you meet?
Go [illegible] away that silly toy,
[illegible] it to please a boy;

Even the cob window wears a sash now.

It is unfortunate that W. D. Day met with his accident playing football as it will prevent him meeting W. H. Morton in the cross-country race next Tuesday.

The Amateur Athletic Union Board of Managers allowed W. C. Dohm's record of 1m. 55⅘s., but refused to allow Luther B. Cary's record of 1m. 56⅗s. Both were made under precisely similar conditions as regards timing and form of second man.

Sporting Queries Answered.

C. D. Benjamin.—Yes, the New York (P. L.) Club was at one time last in the race.

Doubter.—Under the Association rules of 1884 the pitchers were allowed seven balls and three strikes.

J. C. Poker Club.—B., having straddled the age, thus gains the privileges of the age man. As that is the only advantage he can obtain by straddling, he therefore has the right to raise just as if he had the age originally.

Killed by a Blade of Grass.

[From a San Angelo (Tex.) Special.]

Albert Frame, a sheep man from Devil's River, died here this evening from an abscess of the neck, caused by a blade of grass lodging in his throat. The deceased came to town this week for medical aid, but was too late.
